Sandi's Story

A JPMC EMPLOYEE JOURNEY

"Look around you.
Appreciate what you have.
Nothing will be the same in a year."

Sandra Myers, JPMC admissions clerk was diagnosed with IgA Nephropathy Stage 2 Kidney Failure. She is undergoing chemotherapy and steroid treatments as a series patient in the Jamestown Regional Medical Center Emergency Department.

"I wouldn't want to be with any other group of caring staff and coworkers to help me through this," she says. "For this I want to tell you thank you for being here for me."

Myers has always been a people person. Working at JPMC for over a year, she has been cross trained in multiple departments from the front desk admissions to radiology. "Making a connection with someone to make their day just a little better or brighter makes my job worthwhile and have more meaning to me," she says.

Even with a difficult journey ahead, she notes that helping others is one of the "simplest ways to fill our life with joy and fulfillment."

"With being able to work the different departments within JPMC I have also gained a new family of co-workers, for the staff at JPMC not only works their hardest to accommodate our patient's needs, but they work together as teams to ensure that employees can count on each other."

Sandra Myers, JPMC admissions clerk shares her story as part of this year's employee giving campaign. It is a testimonial about why JPMC ranks #63 in the country as Modern Health Care's Best Places to Work.

This is the third of the four-part cover feature walking in the shoes of employees at JPMC.

You give the gift of hope & healing

TO THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE

The year 2017 will be remembered for some of the biggest advances and lifesaving and changing efforts in JRMC history, all powered by commitment, expertise and continuous support from people like you.

Here are some examples of the impact of your giving:

- One family shares, “financial support gave us the time and support to reflect, and consider the life ahead after losing our child.”
- A daughter says that “hospice was so helpful, I don’t know what I would have done without them coming to help bathe and comfort my dad.”
- Dozens of women were able to receive access to breast cancer screenings. One woman shares, “I would have gone without.”
- Due to veins that were hard to see, getting blood drawn was a difficult experience for this patient. But the Veinlite Transilluminator (pictured right) allowed for success, reduced pain and anxiety.

In addition, the staff and board at JRMC have made strides in developing and creating cancer services for our region. It still hinges on finding an oncologist. We can’t wait until we can cut a purple ribbon celebrating the start of care. We have a promise to you and the community.

Until then, because of a special endowment fund, the Barb and Curt Togstad C.A.R.E. Fund, we have begun providing gas cards to patients who have to travel for care.

Thank you to you, our supporters, staff and volunteers who help make JRMC a top, critical access hospital in the country.

With gratitude,

Lisa Jackson, Director

1,442 GENEROUS DONORS

S.A.N.E.

Sexual Assault Nursing Education (S.A.N.E.) training, survivor support and new equipment in the emergency department are available 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

HOME HEALTH & HOPICE

The creation of a hospice comfort cart, pill boxes, telemedicine units along with staff training, chaplaincy, patient and family education and grief support are possible because of your support.

FAMILY BIRTHPLACE

There are few moments in life more important than the time a mother first spends with her newborn. The Nara Bassinet brings mothers close to their newborns and also helps staff with extra storage. JRM C employees who made a gift during the 2017 employee giving campaign helped purchase this equipment.

Five families experiencing infant loss recieved ANGELS funds this year.

What's normal?

DEDICATED GYNECOLOGY & OBSTETRICS

You may have heard about the dozens of reasons to choose JRMC for care. One of those reasons is the newest provider, Dr. Bailey Runkles, gynecologist and obstetrician. She provides care for the whole woman specializing specifically in high-risk pregnancies, infertility care, contraception and incontinence.

Previously, women with high-risk pregnancies were transferred to bigger hospitals. Now, these women can receive that care close to home.

"We are thrilled to have Dr. Bailey Runkles join us," says K.C. DeBoer, JRMC president and CEO. "An OB/GYN will supplement the high-quality primary care services already offered in this community."

"Jamestown has a wonderful group of family physicians who provide excellent obstetric care," Dr. Runkles says, "My goal is to be an asset to their practice and provide prenatal care to those higher-risk patients who would otherwise have to travel."

Dr. Runkles graduated high school in Knob Noster, Mo., and completed her undergraduate studies at Hood College in Frederick, Md. She attended medical school at Edward Via Virginia College of Osteopathic Medicine, Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, Va.

In addition to her professional work, Dr. Runkles has a passion for education and volunteering. She's volunteered her time, providing relief to socioeconomically depressed communities in Virginia, offering health information and free screenings. She also assessed and treated Dominican and Haitian refugees at a free clinic in the Dominican Republic. In 2010 and 2011, she taught healthy behaviors, preventative health and first responder skills to adolescents, teachers and local law enforcement.

Dr. Runkles and her husband, Joshua, chose Jamestown because it's a small town that they could grow into. "We were overwhelmed by the welcome and support we received when we came to visit," says Runkles.

“Get your mammogram is all I have to say. My lump was found because of 3D mammography.”

Pillows and prayers

BREAST CANCER CREATES GIFT

If any good can come from having cancer, it is an idea to help others. After Jennifer Lindsey received the difficult diagnosis of breast cancer, she quickly went through surgery and radiation.

“Right after I got done with my first radiation appointment I received a ‘boobie pillow,’” shares Lindsey. “I suppose I shouldn’t even call them that,” she laughs, “but that’s what they are.”

What they are, is a blessing. After her first radiation appointment, a volunteer brought the small pillow to comfort her post lumpectomy. Lindsey shares that they are the best gift she’s ever received.

Lindsey was diagnosed with Stage I breast cancer on April 19th. At first, it wasn’t even clear that it was cancer.

“I have dense tissue, so until my biopsy, it couldn’t be confirmed,” shares Lindsey.

“Get your mammogram is all I have to say. My lump was found because of 3D mammography.”

The “lump” was 5 x 6 mm. Lindsey had surgery at JRMCC. The surgeon had to remove 16 mm to make sure all of the cancerous tissue was removed. “It leaves a hole and that space fills with fluid. It was painful. My bra would rub that spot and it hurt...hurt, hurt, hurt,” Lindsey grimaces as she recalls that moment in her journey.

Lindsey and her friend and colleague, Barb Togstad, handmade a variety of pillows for each patient and placed them in a bag with instructions.

“The small pillows can be placed between the body and arm to relieve discomfort. There’s also a seat belt cover to support women in the car,” shares Togstad. If her name sounds familiar, Togstad developed a named JRMCC Foundation endowment fund in memory of both her parents who passed away from cancer. She also works with Hope Help and Healing. Both the fund and the grief support group provide gas cards to cancer patients.

Lindsey spent her 10-year employment gift money on a sewing machine and learned how to sew. Togstad donated the fabric. Together they have already supplied five bags that will go to women who have mastectomies or lumpectomies at JRMCC. A note in the bags says, “If you are struggling with cancer, remember that God is the source and giver of all true hope. While we were making these pillows, we said a prayer for you.”

“I was blessed with the boobie pillows. Sometimes it is the little things on this journey. Because they helped me so much and for so long...I still use them, I wanted to help others,” shares Lindsey.

At JRMCC we want you to #RethinkPink which means moving from awareness to action. Schedule your 3D Mammogram at (701) 952-4852.

Golf supports cancer care

HONORS BAENEN

Team Jerry's Kids retained its first-place title this year in Jamestown Regional Medical Center's GOLF "fore" GOOD tournament.

The team's name, "Jerry's Kids," is in memory of the late Jerry Baenen. Baenen had played in each GOLF "fore" GOOD tournament since the event's origin seven years ago.

After his death in December 2016, JRMC organized this summer's GOLF "fore" GOOD in Baenen's memory. The tournament benefits the upcoming JRMC Cancer Center.

Baenen is remembered as a lovable golfer who was generous with both his time and money. A cancer survivor, Baenen knew that cancer is not an illness you fight alone. To help, Baenen volunteered his time with Stutsman County Relay for Life. He'd also drive people to their oncology treatments in Bismarck, if they needed it.

Team Jerry's Kids consisted of Baenen, who was in his 80s, Len Orr, age 54, as well as Orr's stepson, Brent Giesler, and friend, Michael Nogosek, who are both in their 20s. This year, Baenen's daughter, Julie Jeske, played in his honor. She also took top prize for the Jerry Baenen Longest Putt Contest. Jerry's Kids took first place in the contest with a score of 48. Team Layered – Cody Champagne, Lucas Morken, Brian Meyer and Cody Lausch – took second with a score of 49.

"I will always remember my dad saying 'Drive for show, putt for dough,'" Jeske says.

Although golf season is over, the drive for many is not. Miles matter when it comes to cancer care. The tournament proceeds were more than $28,000 and will help make local cancer care a reality.

Each year, the JRMC Cancer Center will provide chemotherapy infusions for more than 100 residents of Jamestown and the surrounding communities.

"Cancer is a battle you don't fight by yourself," says Jeske. "It pretty much takes a village to help you through it."

The JRMC Cancer Center will include five infusion rooms and one bed, a consultation area and space for nurses and staff. Recruitment for an oncologist is still in progress.

Angels among us

GRATITUDE FOR GIVING THIS ANGELS FUND 'WINGS'

“Forty years ago, my daughter was stillborn. She was full term and very tiny. I had experienced a difficult nine-month pregnancy,” shares a mother who was so thankful to hear about the Advocating for Neonatal Grief and Early Loss Support (ANGELS) fund, that she stopped in the JRMCF Foundation office to share her story and support for infant loss at JRMCF.

“As I accepted that beautiful letter and gift from this mother,” shares Lisa Jackson, JRMCF Foundation Director, “I was heartbroken. Back then, families were told to forget it and move on.”

It is healing to be able to support others.

Dr. Mandy Sorlie knows that first hand. As she witnesses expectant mothers who don't get to bring their babies home from the hospital. After driving home in tears after a stillborn delivery and sharing her experience with her husband, Dave and their children, Olivia, 11; Owen, 8; and Lauren, 4; they discussed creating a fund.

“As parents, we couldn't imagine what it would feel like to experience infant death,” Dr. Sorlie shares. “Dave just looked at me and said ‘we can do this.’”

The ANGELS fund helps pay medical bills for parents experiencing infant loss at JRMCF. This year, the 2nd Annual GOLF “fore” ANGELS event hosted 18 teams and raised more than $9,000.

This October, the Wave of Light ceremony provides a service and support for infant and pregnancy loss. “Healing happens though sharing personal stories and meeting others who know what you feel,” shares Renea Lunde, RN, JRMCF Family BirthPlace. The event included a short walk, balloon release for angels and blessings for families.

PILLARS OF SUPPORT

SMETTES NAMED PHILANTHROPISTS OF THE YEAR

This year the Philanthropist of the Year went to a couple known for their volunteer work with service clubs, disaster relief, business development, education and healthcare. Dr. David and Claudette Smette are passionate about making the community, and the world, a better place.

They have truly made a difference in the lives of thousands. Dave, who became a member of JRM Foundation Board of Directors in 2009 believes in the work of JRM “because it helps the whole community.”

Claudette is a member JRM Auxiliary. In addition to Smette’s work at JRM, he and Claudette are also active with the Jamestown Rotary Club, Jamestown Tourism Board of Directors, U.S. Small Business Administration’s local SCORE chapter, the Jamestown Community Foundation and Jamestown Chamber of Commerce. Prior to his life as a full-time volunteer, Smette served as the superintendent of Jamestown Public Schools. They have two daughters, Candace and Pamela.

“It’s because of people like Dave and Claudette that JRM can offer the services it does. Rural healthcare is possible because of the generosity of community members like them,” says Lisa Jackson, JRM foundation director.

At JRM Foundation’s annual Pillars of Giving event, supporters were engrossed by nationally recognized speaker and author Mike Schlappi. His speech, “Shot Happens, I got shot, what’s your problem?” shared his story of resilience after being shot as a boy by his best friend and the healthcare professionals that changed his life. Schlappi helped us all accept that we may have a barrier or something in life that paralyzes us, perhaps if only in our mind or heart, but that taking the right position creates the outcome.

Daniel Kornovich, and his parents, Edmund and Florence, will be remembered for leaving a legacy that continues to help people they've never meet.

Kornovich Healing Garden

NEW SPACE DEDICATION, NEXT PHASE

Daniel Kornovich was a regular at the Jamestown Hospital Wellness Center. He always arrived with a "good morning friend." Farming, ranching, his wellness family and taking care of others was important to him.

After his death in 2009, Kornovich left a transformational gift to Jamestown Regional Medical Center in his will. With a portion of the money, the Kornovich Healing Garden was created. The landscaping focuses on the beauty of North Dakota's natural terrain, grasses, shrubs and trees.

The garden was expanded this spring and includes a 1.5 mile walking path around the campus, additional seating, water feature and additional green space for events.

Bonnie Dewald, JRM patient accounts clerk, was a friend of Kornovich and now looks at the new gardens from her office window. "I have seen a recent cancer survivor sit and stare at the beautiful fountain and count her blessings. I have seen families gather to support one another while a hurting member is in the hospital. I have seen walking groups come and take on the paths to keep fit."

"When we think of healing, we think of tests, equipment, and medicine. We don't always remember the power of resting in a serene space. The Kornovich family gift will help people heal for decades to come," says, Lisa Jackson, JRM foundation director.

The Kornovich Healing Garden is open and available to the public. To personally dedicate a bench, walking path paver or patio tile in the garden, please call JRM Foundation at (701) 952-4880.

To brighten your day

VOLUNTEERS BRING FLOWERS

Going to the hospital whether it is for surgery, emergency, delivery or rehabilitation can be a stressful time for patients and their family. Jill Shaffer wanted to brighten their day. Throughout the summer, she brought fresh flowers to JRM. Schaffer and Ella Thoms, a JRM volunteer, placed flowers in vials and vases to brighten up the waiting rooms and gave to staff to hand out to patients.

JRM welcomes its new volunteer services coordinator Mary Engels to its Foundation.

Engels joined the team in August.

To give the gift of time, call Engels at (701) 952-4880 or visit www.jrmcnd.com/volunteer.

Demolition builds future care

GIVING MORE WITH CREDIT

The Sherbenske, Inc. crew was hired to demolish the old Jamestown Regional Medical Center Clinic building, known as the modular medical office building. In addition to the destruction, they wanted to build something. “The future of the hospital is important to us,” says Steve Attleson, CFO & General Counsel of Sherbenske, Inc. Attleson gave the instructions to gift a portion of its fee back to JRMC Foundation. The funds will go towards the JRMC Endowment for the Future fund. “It makes sense. The tax credit is very beneficial,” says Attleson.

Steve Attleson, Pamela
Szarkowski, Kathy Grinsteiner

Attleson is right. Gifts over $5,000 benefit individuals and businesses with a 40 percent North Dakota state income tax credit. For patients at JRMC, it improves care by funding critical medical equipment, facility improvements and providing staff training. Plus, it will provide a guaranteed source of income JRMC can rely on to meet future needs.

JRMC Foundation honors these gifts with naming opportunities in the Kornovich Healing Garden or named endowment funds.

North Dakota is one of only a few states which provides any type of income tax credit for charitable gifts. The legislation allows for a maximum state tax credit of $10,000 for an individual or $20,000 for a married couple and may be carried forward for three years.

NEED A TAX CREDIT?

Charitable Gifts = 40% Tax Credit

Cash Gift	Federal Tax Deduction (28% Tax Credit)	ND State Income Tax Credit	Net Cost
$5,000	$1,400	$2,000	$1,600
$25,000	$7,000	$10,000	$8,000
$50,000	$14,000	$20,000	$16,000

WANT TO HELP SAVE AND CHANGE LIVES?

Both individuals and businesses qualify.

- make an outright gift or establish a planned gift, such as a charitable gift annuity
- the minimum qualifying gift is $5,000 (lump sum or spread out over the tax year)

Gifts under $5,000 do not qualify for this credit, but are still tax-deductible. This information is provided for educational purposes only. Please consult your own attorney, accountant or financial adviser for advice on your situation.

Please contact Lisa Jackson, JRMC Foundation Director if you would like to learn more or see gift plan examples at (701) 952-4806 or ljackson@jrmcnd.com.

A breath of air

A TESTIMONIAL OF CARE

In his moment of distress, she was there for him, even on her night off. That...he shares, made the difference.

"I should be dead," says David deSousa. He arrived at Jamestown Regional Medical Center via ambulance. He couldn't breathe. And because of it, he could barely talk. The JRMC team worked to stabilize him. While doing so, they called one of JRMC's Respiratory Therapists, Erin Stewart. At 1:30 am, the off-duty RT arrived at the hospital.

A respiratory therapist cares for patients who struggle to breathe. Common ailments include chronic respiratory diseases like asthma or emphysema. Respiratory therapists also provide emergency care to patients suffering from heart attacks, stroke, drowning or shock. Former patients don't always remember Stewart's name, but they often remember her "character." In addition to being kind, hard-working and caring, Stewart nearly always accessorizes with a comic book superhero.

"It makes sense. She's like Wonder Woman to me," smiles deSousa.

A retired scientist and Vietnam veteran, deSousa struggles with several ailments including diabetes, congestive heart failure and chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD). The day he came to JRMC's Emergency Department, a new medication interfered with his ability to breathe.

Upon arrival, he was using every muscle in his body to get air. It still wasn't enough. To help take the pressure off his lungs, Stewart applied a Bipap machine. "The Darth Vader mask," jokes deSousa. The treatment is non-invasive and helps force air into a person's lungs.

To help patients like deSousa, JRMC Foundation is raising money to bring Vapotherm technology to JRMC (pictured right). For patients who can't breathe, it will be their super hero. "It's a good thing," says Deb Beaton, JRMC respiratory care therapist. "This would be new technology to JRMC, but it has long been proven to improve patient outcomes and reduce the length of hospital stays."

Whether it is emphysema, chronic bronchitis, asthma or bronchiectasis, Vapotherm will help with breathlessness for premature babies to geriatrics.

"It's a scary thing, not being able to breathe," deSousa says. That's something Stewart knows too. Diagnosed with asthma as a child, she's experienced it herself.

That's why Stewart, even on her night off, stayed at JRMC with deSousa until 3:30 am.

"If it were my loved one, I'd want the medical professional to stay," she says. "So that's my philosophy of care at JRMC."

The respiratory care team can be contacted at (701) 952-4858.

"...She's like
Wonder Woman to me,"

smiles deSousa.

Hospice baby

WEAVING FRIENDSHIPS AND PROVIDING PEACE

*A*dopted as a newborn in Alabama, she was born on March 31st. Meet Penelope Lameria Ruth. Her name means weaving friendships. She lets anybody and everybody hold her. She is the "hospice" baby.

On the day pictured here, Penelope visited LuVerne Brobst, whose arm was already outstretched, propped on a pillow, waiting for her arrival. This experience brought peace to Brobst in her final days. The connection renewed the spirit of her caregivers.

"We get so tired of death, Penelope gives us the fresh breath of life," shares Kathleen Heller, JRMC Hospice Chaplain.

Penelope is the daughter of Kalen and Sarah Heller, and Kathleen's granddaughter. Kalen is also a chaplain with the Jamestown Regional Medical Center Home Health and Hospice team. As Kalen goes to visit patients, he occasionally brings Penelope too.

THANK YOU TO THE HELLER FAMILY FOR SHARING.

To learn more about the services provided by JRMC Home Health and Hospice, call (701) 952-4847.

Friendly staff and prompt and courteous service. The meals were excellent. The nursing staff are golden! All who had a hand in my comfort and recovery...some 40+ individuals made my stay a mini vacation! The operating team was superb!

—Ricky, Gackle, ND

I want to thank you for the loving care you gave to Marlene the many times she was there. I hope to have time to visit you sometime not on an emergency basis, however if that should happen please give me the care you gave my wife, which was truly appreciated. Please extend this thank you to all personnel who helped & tended to Marlene in any way.

Lord's blessing to all.

—Don, Jamestown, ND
